

BEFORE

I was working in a hospital in India and earning my own money. Things at that time were really good, I was happy and independent. I was able to go out with friends when I wanted to and had a really good life which I thoroughly enjoyed. I really missed my old life before marriage.

During the beginning stages of my marriage, things were going well. My husband and I went on holidays; he supported my dreams and offered to pay for my degree, initially.
